

Diorama, I Wait For You

Diorama - I Wait For You Lyrics

I like your time I like your thinking and drowning in your weird obsessions I kiss your feet as you are walking by and feel your potion on my lips the sundance and your eyes invincibly combined still wondering what to pray for tell me why I die to please you

I wait for you I wait for you now

Shouldn't it be sad that one's alive unjust sentence to endure reminding all the tears we drank together you cannot leave me all alone hesitation and my mind

invincibly combined
still wondering what to pray for
tell me why I die to please you

I wait for you I wait for you now Your hazy breath -intoxicatingillumination starts to fade Blinded eyes cannot see a companion a divided soul I offer to repay

I won't rely on someone's patience another vision of delight my childhood fears should lie in graves now innocence I must deny

I wait for you I wait for you now
