

Disturbed, Two Worlds

Give it to me!

Two Worlds are waring in me, killing us now, raging inside
Measure my horror in me, remove the sickness, plaguing my mind
Two Worlds are waring in me,
Killing us now!... Show me the light!...

Two Worlds collide whenever I step to the front,
I look for a new place to hide, while tearing my color away
I swallow my pride, but never forget what I want,
Starting to long for a time, not fearing the war in my mind...

Two Worlds are waring in me, both sides are losing, patience has died
None of the martyr remains, drowns my conviction, regions divide
Two Worlds are waring in me,
Killing us now!... Show me the light!...

Two Worlds collide whenever I step to the front,
I look for a new place to hide, while tearing my color away
I swallow my pride, but never forget what I want,
Starting to long for a time, not fearing the war in my mind...

Give me a sign, tell me when it's time
Show me the light, tell me when it's fucking over

Two Worlds collide whenever I step to the front,
I look for a new place to hide, while tearing my color away
I swallow my pride, but never forget what I want,
Starting to long for a time, not fearing the war in my mind