

Dogma, Anywhere But Here

Well, all of my life I've always wanted to be someone
And all of my life I've always wanted to get somewhere
But there's no way to be any place but here
And there's no way to get anywhere but here

All of my life I've tried to chase every want and desire
Running in circles to find that I am standing still, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah
But there's no way to be any place but here
And there's no way to get anywhere but here

But there's no way to be any place but here
And there's no way to get anywhere but here
And there's no way to be any place but here
And there's no where to feel any place but here
Any place, any place but here
