

Dogma, Never Come Down

Are things ever what they appear?
Trade in your tragedy for a brand new fear
Make a wish and watch it disappear
Ain't no one gonna buy a collection of tears

I wanna get higher and never come down
I wanna get higher and never come down
Never come down

Take off your innocence and put it in a jar
Walk off the stage and find out who you really are You've walked for miles, but have you gone that far?
There must be a reason everything's so hard

I wanna get higher and never come down
I wanna get higher and never come down
I wanna get higher and never come down
I wanna get higher and never come down
Never come down

There's not always a good reason for everything we feel
You can't always dress up your fantasies enough to make them real
How can one's heart be soft when it must be made of steel?
And if it's left a scar, can you really claim that you are healed?

I wanna get higher and never come down
I wanna get higher and never come down
I wanna get higher and never come down
I wanna get higher and never come down
Never come down
