

Dogwood, Sunsets Are But Once A Day

Hello my friend
It's good to know you're looking after me
On this day I'll plummet to the sea
In my next life will you keep me warm?

Listen when I tell you, sun
The reasons are so clear
The irony is that
No one is here

When you're by my side
I've got all my friends
But veracity gives me a tender glimpse
And then I'm left with nothing

Goodbye my friend
I'm glad I got to share this world with you
Our affinity is now through
In your next life can I keep you warm?
Keep you warm

Listen when I tell you, sun
The reasons are so clear
The irony is that
No one is here

When you're by my side
I've got all my friends
But veracity gives me a tender glimpse

The sun sets but once a day
The sun sets but once a day
