Dolly Parton, Country Road

(Dolly Parton/Gary Scruggs)

Saw you turnin' down main street in your big, black fancy car You were dressed up fit to kill, with a pretty girl on your arm You spun around and you headed up town Where the neon lights all shine Left me choking in a cloud of dust You never pay me no mind

You're livin' in the fast lane I guess I'm just too slow I never wore silk or fancy furs Just plain ole calico

I'll never be a fast lane lover And they're the only kind you take up town I am just a country road That you keep turnin' down

If you ever hit a dead end street If it's love that you're looking for You can always turn around And beat a path right to my door Do I have to draw you a map You seem to know your way around So when you're tired of spinnin' your wheels Baby, we can go to town

You're livin' in the fast lane I guess I'm just too slow I never wore silk or fancy furs Just plain ole calico

I'll never be a fast lane lover And they're the only kind you take up town I am just a country road That you keep turnin' down

I am just a country road That you keep turnin' down

You're livin' in the fast lane I guess I'm just too slow I never wore silk or fancy furs Just plain ole calico