

Dolly Parton, Hungry Again

(Dolly Parton)

The thrill, the desire, the excitement is gone
We seem to have found a safe comfort zone
We worked so hard to get where we are
That romance got lost on the way

It used to be never enough
We'd melt with each look and each burning touch
We laughed and we loved and we just ate it up
Back when we were hungry that way

Let's love like we're hungry again
Bring back the passion we had back then
The time has gone by, we forgot what it meant
Let's love like we're hungry again

Don't you miss those feelings we had at the start
And that fire that got started from each little spark
Oh it's good where we are, but I miss where we've been
Let's love like we're hungry again, now and then

Let's love like we're hungry again
Bring back the passion we had back then
The time has gone by, now we've grown too content
Let's love like we're hungry again, now and then
Let's love like we're hungry again
