

Donkey Punch, Again

Yesterday I saw you sitting alone
In the corner of my favorite coffee shop
I wanted to touch your hair you face your everything else
I think I like you a lot
I wanted to learn your name your sign are you someone else's girlfriend
Do you think you could be mine you're so fine
And I'll say it again and again
It's happening again
Today I talked to you for the first time I even held your hand
I'm planning out our futures together
When you're gonna be my woman and I'm your man You've got a nice ass a nice rack yeah baby
I've known it from the start
I wanted to get inside your mind your soul your pants
Inside your heart
It's happening again
Tomorrow you left me broken hearted
I thought that I had found my niche
Why did you have to screw me over?
Why did you have to be such a bitch?
If I saw you today I'd tell you
You're stupid you're ugly and you're overweight
You picked the wrong kid to mess with baby
Now it's much too late It's way too fking late
It's happening again
But then I see you standing there again
Reminds of the time back when I first met you
And the way we were before
But then I think about it once again
And all I can think about is when you broke my heart you stupid good-for-nothing whore
Now I see you for the girl you've always been
And I can't hear you when you say that we should stay good friends
As far as I'm concerned this is where you end