

Donna Fargo, I Have The Strangest Feeling (You're Gone)

You just kissed me good morning so I know you're standing there
But can you hear the sounds before goodbye and nobody cares
Maybe I'm wrong but I have the strangest feeling you're gone
What was that you said to me my mind was out to play
With some mem'ries I saved up especially for this kind of day
Guess I'm wrong but I have the strangest feeling you're gone
There's no need to hide it we're just putting off the pain
And goodbye ain't so bad it's just a different kind of rain
Like lonely dewdrops on a daisy when the evening sun goes down
Or like hearing footsteps echo in an empty neon town
Go on and get it over with if can't hurt me anymore
Than these transparent blindfolds that love put on before
Wish I was wrong but I have the strangest feeling you're gone
Go on and built a better world I'll do what I can with mine
Maybe someday we can love again at some other place or time
Goodbye darling I have the strangest feeling you're gone
Goodbye darling I have the strangest feeling you're gone
Goodbye hoss
