Donna Fargo, Song I Can Sing

I take out my guitar and strum all my dreams It's somewhere around here I know Don't let me chase rainbows that don't would have an end There must be a song I can sing Where is the melody and where are the words where is the rhythm of the drum And where are the voices that can make my heart bring I know there's a song I can sing

And if I keep trying find a secret to wake me from my dream That sleeps on the footsteps of my soul Some day I'll hear the music that can bring my voice swings Cause I know there's a song I can sing Yes some day I'll hear the melody and I'll find the words And I'll feel the rhythm of the drum And I'll listen to the voices that can make my heart bring Yes somewhere there's a song I can sing Yes some day I'll hear the melody...
