

Donna Summer, I REMEMBER YESTERDAY (in

Spoken:

I'd like to take some time to reach into the past to take some old songs and some new songs some borrowed and some blue songs

I remember yesterday

I remember yesterday

I remember that first night we met dancing to the sounds of clarinets dancing cheek to cheek, oh how sweet you and me and this fantasy oh I remember our first night

I remember how we carried on on and on until the light of dawn from the very start, you stole my heart I knew right then we would never part oh I remember that first night

Remember that first night

remember that first night

I saw your lovelight through the candle's glow champagne was flowing, and so I let myself go and when the night was over, we both looked around the room remember darling, chairs on the table, and only me and you Walk me home in springtime showers in the early morning hours you took me to my door, we were sure so we swore that forever more I'll remember our first night

Remember that first night

Remember that first night
