Donovan, The Mandolin Man And His Secret

He came into town with his mandolin Calling all the people and they came to him He said I want to hear all that's pretty He said I want to hear all that's nice

They laughed at him with his mandolin They left him there with his funny grin He said I want to hear all that's pretty He said I want to hear all that's nice

The children of the town then came to him Magically called with his mandolin He said I want to hear all that's pretty He said I want to hear all that's nice

They smiled at him with his mandolin Their eyes like his were sparkling He said I want to hear all that's pretty He said I want to hear all that's nice

They said d'you want to hear all that's pretty They said d'you want to hear all that's nice
