

Dottie West, I'll Help You Forget Her

I'll help you forget her if you'll let me I'll welcome your arms open wide
I'll give you my shoulder to cry on until all your teardrops have dried
I'll help you forget her when you're lonely my arms will be your code to call
A shield from the storm that has hurt you a love that won't stumble and fall
All alone on an arm charted ocean you search for a love that used to be Toss and turn by the tide of emotion adrift like a ship hopelessly lost at sea
But I'll help you forget her if you'll let me I'll guide you safely to shore
I'll be the anchor you cling to your harbor of love evermore