

Dottie West, That's Where Our Love Must Be

(That's where our love our love must be)
Where the sun takes the dew from the roses
Where winter takes the color from the leaves
Where the frost takes the sweetest of all flowers
That's where that's where our love must be
To that same place go the bubbles from the fountain
And so goes the white foam from the sea
And now since you say your love for me is gone
That's where that's where our love must be
Your love for me just disappeared like the flowers and the dew
So I had to let go of my heart of our love
So they'd meet in that somewhere to be true
In that world of no return lives our love now
That's where that's where our love must be
