

Dottie West, You're The Other Half Of Me

You're the other half of me you're the eyes through which I see
All alone I'm only half a girl that with you I can be you're the other half of me

Things I begin they always end half started things I say always sound half parted
I'm as helpless as a babybird above that's fallen from a tree
You're the other half of me
You're the other half...
You're the other half of me