

Down By Law, Cheap Thrill

I didn't think that there was something wrong again now it looks like it's that time again it's all a puzzle where one piece never seems fits it's all a game that I just can't win everything was fine until you changed your mind
now it looks like it's that time again the door is open and I see your back again you've had your fun and now you're gone I always thought that what we had was true now that you broke my heart guess I was wrong and it's looking like it's that time again
now it looks like it's that time again you're going to leave me just like every time before all the others I understood summer romances I knew would end but this time I thought it would last without a warning it's become the past when am I going to get the last laugh?
Guess it was all a cheap thrill