

Dragonforce, The Fire Still Burns

Finally all the World will see.
Rise again before the endless silence.
Burn the soul before we'll all be free.
Light the path beneath the blackened burning sky.

One final sacrifice this night belongs to me, turn back before the dawn of winter,
So far away the cry set fallen angels free, through my mind tonight our journey ever after.
Never-ending solitude, this is your life to be, so cold and dark the voice of sadness,
Suffering in endless pain, the truth of all to be, growing back to life through ever-blinding darkness.

Free falling, fate's warning, find a life to hold on,
Soul stealers, true believers, rise now they are gone!

And as they ride away, forsake the one to save us, winter's morning on a lost, fallen world,
Pray now united, in a lifetime alone, won't you wait for the silence so strong?
Wait for the dawn!

Tonight!
Falling like the rain, insanity lives on.
Feel the shattered dreams, one thousand voices crying, raging endlessly they come.
And the morning light will hide the darkener days gone by,
And the Sun will shine again across the blazing skies.
Glorious eternally, we'll rise above the World,
Marching unto victory we fight!
The Fire still burns!

Looking back our passing lives, their memories to see, flock through the passages of silence,
Hidden by the sacrifice, to set the Demons free, now they understand: reclaim the land relentless.

Fear calling, transforming, stand alone in our time.
Advocation, desolation, slay the vision divine.

And all the stars fall around the World tonight, silent forces from a past life return,
Pray for the silence in a world so alone, till we touch the horizon beyond!
Fly through the storm!

Tonight!
Falling like the rain, insanity lives on.
Feel the shattered dreams, one thousand voices crying, raging endlessly they come.
And the morning light will hide the darkener days gone by,
And the Sun will shine again across the blazing skies.
Glorious eternally, we'll rise above the World,
Marching unto victory we fight!
The Fire still burns!

The tears in your eyes, a lifetime of misery,
In the silence we stand all alone for the fate of our own destiny.
A lifetime of lies, one chance at this fantasy,
The judgment will pass for the cries of the World that has faded for me.

Tonight!
Falling like the rain, insanity lives on.
Feel the shattered dreams, one thousand voices crying, raging endlessly they come.
And the morning light will hide the darkener days gone by,
And the Sun will shine again across the blazing skies.
Glorious eternally, we'll rise above the World,
Marching unto victory we fight!
The Fire still burns!