

Dressy Bessy, If You Should Try To Kiss Her

Open the door, walk in behind her
Draw back your bow, let it remind her
No ones around, no need to fake it
She's not in love, how can she take it

Give her the time, she'll know you mean it
Make up her mind, throw in her feelings
Open the door, have her jump through it
She fell in love, how could she do it

Do you know
Do you know what your missing
What your missing will show
If you should try to kiss her

Do you know
Do you know what your missing
What your missing will show
If you should try to kiss her
If you should try to kiss her

Crazies galore, you wouldn't do it
Seen it before, looks like you blew it

Do you know
Do you know what your missing
What your missing will show
If you should try to kiss her

Do you know
Do you know what your missing
What your missing will show if you should try to kiss her
If you should try to kiss her
If you should try to kiss her

Do you know
Do you know what your missing
What your missing will show
If you should try to kiss her

Do you know
Do you know what your missing
what your missing will show
If you should try to kiss her
If you should try to kiss her
Just put up your fister
If you should try to kiss her tommorrow
