

Dropkick Murphys, The Only Road

How could you choose a path without knowing where you'd end up Where you came from was a time and place that you had never been

(Is this the only road)

Can you fake your way through conversation or just simply turn away Set a course for the desert sun

Is this the only choice
To live without a choice,
this is the only choice we'll know

Cut your teeth and now it's time to show the world that what your made of
Was a travesty that many just call luck

(Is this the only road)

Now climb aboard the red line train that's headed out of town Or stick around and just relive your past

Is this the only choice
To live without a choice,
this is the only choice we'll know

You're always running out of wind and you keep saying it's the end You're always hoping that you'll win, but then you throw in the towel in
