Drowning Pool, Upside Down

Come on

Born to lose maybe, but not through you Not like you, thank your God, not, you're too confused

Little one what I need aint what you bleed You've got your words twisted funny A simple fool aint what I am, nor yesterday You tend to burn me all so clean You always point your finger

You've got me hanging upside down Deep inside you've got me all wrong now You've got me hanging upside down On a cross, that's burning, burning

Break my back under the weight of your eyes Broken by your one-sided compromise, come on Drop a dime on what you say is everything Not for you, no time for any saving grace This fire's burning brighter The tongue the match that ignites these flames So quick to point your finger

You've got me hanging upside down Deep inside you've got me all wrong now You've got me hanging upside down On a cross, that's burning, burning

You're not changing me, you got me all wrong now You're not changing me, you got me all wrong now

Yeah You got me hanging Ooh, yeah You've got me hanging upside down You've got me all wrong now You've got me hanging upside down You've got me all wrong now

You've got me hanging upside down Deep inside you've got me all wrong now You've got me hanging upside down On a cross, that you're burning

You've got me hanging upside down Deep inside you've got, you got me wrong You've got me hanging upside down On a cross, that you're burning
