

Dubaldo Marie Claire, The Outside (Of The Other

THE OUTSIDE (OF THE OTHER SIDE) (Marie Claire D'Ubaldo)

Too many shadows in the light ready to take me far to an endless empty place I never knew quite enough
I can see faces all around I can feel mirrors in my back it's cold, and I can't pretend I'm alright And I'm walking on the outside of the other side and I'm walking on the outside, feeling it's the wrong side and I'm walking, I'm walking down the other side, I never thought it'd happen so fast Time to fear, some time to hide I'm falling and falling into the dark tell the sergeant I'm stealing life trying to stay with you for a little while Too many stories share my mind too many visions share my happiness, my fears I can't forget it time to time Memories are rushing in and out no more complaints, no more denials and I smile, although I can't pretend I'm alright
