

Duke Special, Ballad Of A Broken Man

Let me down baby,
I'm driving me crazy.
You need to erase all the things I have done.
I shake and I shiver,
I poison my liver.
I'm riding a river, that river is blue.

I can see what you can see, it's worrying.
I'm fading my fast towards my last, I'm hurrying.
I wish that I could passify the guilt that I feel.

I know the wrongs this vagabond has done to you.
I head rewind, well, every time that tape runs through.
Your memory is haunting me, and cuts to my bones.
I'm drunk and I'm tired,
I'm wound up and wired.
I think I've aquired a problem or two.
I quake and I quiver,
And give up my liver.
I'm riding a river, that river is blue.

I can see what you can see, it's worrying.
I'm fading my fast towards my last, I'm hurrying.
I wish that I could passify the guilt that I feel.

I'm riding this river
The river is you.
