

Duncan Sheik, Someone You Need

The streets here are empty
All the people went home
I was just wondering if you're alone
So how've you been lately
I hear you're a little down
Do you think maybe I could come around
I could be someone you need
Wrap you in blankets on dark winter nights
Be your best confidant
be the right compliment
I could be someone you need
We had coffee on 3rd street and talked for a time
I still have your letter, I know every line
I hope this ain't coming from way out of the blue
Cause I got to thinking
And I thought of you
I could be someone you need
Keep you from burning in hot summer sun
...a coat for your shoulder
I could be someone you need
You need someone there when the world isn't fair
It's all just too good to be true
Someone to care for you, wish you were there
When the moment comes, you need to fly
I could be someone you need
Wrap you in blankets on dark winter nights
Be your best confidant
Be the right compliment
I could be someone you need.
