

Duncan Sheik, Sunrise To Sunset

sunrise how can this be so full of hope and ambiguity cos I've got mine and maybe you've got yours
i've been down, yeah i've been down before mostly because I fell out of love or someone turned away

fortune smiled upon me of this I'm not naive but there wouldn't be so many beggars no, if there weren't so many thieves so we change forever now I am moved by different things

I won't deny, there have been times i've been down, is that some kind of crime? it's mostly because I fell out of love
I wanna move on to another kind of song and put those things away whatever may happen in the course of a day the spirits pray upon us beyond us they're inside us run, run if you need to run from that place, there are other places waiting for us hoping for us to ask for tender mercies those devils memories they feed, they feed on the wreckage of your dreams sunset, some pardon another fine and present day I won't be afraid to say I pray, I do

I pray for me, I pray for you I may feel like a stranger all in this together every sister, every brother each life entwined within every other oh, don't you see it's only thing we must believe we all, we all must believe we all must believe every sunrise, every sunset we see
