

E-Type, Star

I'm standing in the face of a storm
Where I will learn which way to go
I feel like I am true to fall
But still I want to take it slow
I know from the past where I wrong
So let things come in a different way
I am waiting for a star to fall down
Need someone around, from time to time
And I'm walking the streets of my hometown
Is there someone for me to find
Now time has come to say goodbye
To all the things I couldn't find Where ever I might go tonight
At least I have made up my mind
I know from the past where I wrong
I'll let things come in a different way
I am waiting for a star to fall down
Need someone around, from time to time when I'm walking the streets of my hometown
is there someone for me to find
I know from the past where I wrong
So let things come in a different way
I will be there(I'm waiting)
I will be there(for a star to fall down) someone from time to time
I will be there(I'm walking the streets from my hometown)
I will be there
(is there someone for me to find)
I am waiting for a star to fall down
need someone around from time to time when I'm walking the street of my hometown is there someone for me to find?
