

Earshot, Wake Up

fall to my knees just to be close to God and I fall to the floor from your love I am weakened by your innocence and touched by your tenderness
I search just to find that you're enough
I'm here, call on me, everything, you and me every moment I think of you is every thought that shatters

all this time just to break up I'm bored and so alone
break up
I'm bored and so alone
Wake up

I will be your protector guided by the light from heaven
I will stand and never be undone like a flame with a million hours, keeping warm this enchantment all that goes inside this grace is yours
I'm here, call on me, everything, you and me
every moment I think of you is every thought that shatters