East To West, Heat On The Line

(c. Jay DeMarcus and Brian White)
I guess you Learned real well
Never stand to close to the fire
Then no one can see what's in your eyes
It's not real hard to tell
That you live your life on the line
It's so clear to me
That this game you play
Is gonna end someday
You don't know what a chance you're taking
Leavin' your heart on the line and
It's a big mistake that you're makin'
When you're leaven the Saviour behind,
Just take the love, the Love that he has given,
Before you run out of time, and you know I love you,
But I hate to see you leaven your heart on the line
I know you've heard it said
It's a crazy world that we live in
Take what you can get before it's gone
You've always been the kind
Chasin' every wind that is blowing
Only to be left with a hand of dust
Now, who are you gonna trust
You don't know what a chance you're taking
Leavin' your heart on the line and
It's a big mistake that you're makin'
When you're leaven the Saviour behind,
Just take the love, the Love that he has given,
Before you run out of time, and you know I love you,
But I hate to see you leaven your heart on the line