

Echo Image, Will You Know?

Here we go again
We smoked cigarettes and talked about our friends
Some things have changed
Still, nothing seems different anyhow
The sun is shining; the rain keeps raining at us
The moon laughs at all the silly things weve done

Cause you still know that I always will be here
And you still know I will always hear you calling
Cause you still know that I always will be here
And you still know I will always hear you calling

Here we go again
I smoked cigarettes with my best friends
We are the same
We will never change; we will never fall apart
Friends come, friends go, but we will never fade
Time flies so fast it feels like yesterday

Cause you still know that I always will be here
And you still know I will always hear you calling
Cause you still know that I always will be here
And you still know I will always hear you calling
