

Eddy Arnold, Song For Shara

If all the world were as pretty as you
There'd be a million smiles for every tear or two
And love would grow where once hurt only grew
If all the world were as pretty as you

All the raindrops fall just to be where you are
And just to see your smile is the wish for every fallen star

There'd be no need to dream our dreams the way we do
For here on earth would be heaven come true
If all the world were as pretty as you
If all the world were as pretty as you
