

Eddy, At the end of time

The farm was still standing at the end of the road And the mailbox still carried our name In spite of