

Edyta Górniak, The Day Before The Rain

I took a picture of my life
Now fading colors turn black and white
If I could catch the sands of time
I could build a castle with a place to hide
Oh baby, have you seen us lately
Can we stop to see what road we're on?

We must have shared a million smiles
When love was full of wonder, and life was just a game
We must have danced a thousand miles
But we didn't hear the thunder
The day before the rain

We had to climb the rock of love
And watch our dreams unfold in front of us
How did we slip, why did we fall?
Maybe we just didn't hear each other call
Oh baby, have you seen us lately
Can we stop to see what road we're on?

We must have shared a million smiles
When love was full of wonder, and life was just a game
We must have danced a thousand miles
But we didn't hear the thunder
The day before the rain

All of my feelings, wiped away all my tears
The day before the rain
All of my days, I was keepin' my faith
How was love washed away in the rain?

And love is full of wonder, life is just a game
We must have danced forever baby
But we didn't hear the thunder
The day before, the day before the rain

We must have shared a million smiles
And life was just a game
...a thousand miles
But we didn't hear the thunder,
The day before the rain

We must have shared forever
Life was just a gam
...a thousand miles
The day before the rain
