

Ego Likeness, The Breach

The Breach

So now just a stone's throw away from the edge of the hole in my life.

Tear the skin from the sky build a wall from the light cast a stone into the sickness in my heart.

So now just a fault line away from the mask on the wall in my home.

Pull the eyes from the dove drink the water from the well as it falls into the dust of my soul.

DROWN ME NOW INTO THIS OCEAN OF YOU DROWN ME NOW INTO YOU HIDE ME AGAIN

So now just an ocean away from the shores of the land in my sleep.

Without the solace of the night tear the candle from the light I never find hope in my dreams.

So now just an icon away where the clock on the wall turns to three one second past the hour one time and we all fall away into the breach...