

Eisley, Head Against The Sky

Sleep with your head against the sky tonight
I can't count how many times you have made me cry
I marvel at the way your hair glows in the light

There's one who cares for me today
There's one who cares for me today

I've watched you grow up child, you have made me proud
I love the way your hand fits so nicely in mine
I always screw up, I wonder, how you sing to me

There's one who cares for me today
There's one who cares for me today

I've watched you grow up child, you have made me proud
(There's one who cares for me today)
I love the way your hand fits so nicely in mine
(There's one who cares for me today)
