

Eisley, Vintage People

I have laughed up galaxies,
Hats and glasses
But i've never met anyone quite like you
I've met vintage people who boast of shipwrecks and bravery,
But I've never met someone quite like you

You can take me away from here

Do you remember how it was when
we were fascinators;
Sneaking glances.
Do you remember how it was all night while I sang
my song. 'Til our songs were done.

All the people gathered to watch you smile
And take photographs for remembrance
Could they testify with experience they would find that They've never met someone quite like you

And you can take me away from here

Do you remember how it was when
we were fascinators;
Sneaking glances.
Do you remember how it was all night while I sang
my song. 'Til our songs were done.

And it's just nice to be near you
Until the sun breaks our city street through.
