

Elbow, Mirrorball

I plant the kind of kiss
That wouldn't wake a baby
On the self-same face
That wouldn't let me sleep
And the street is singing with my feet and dawn gives me a shadow I know to be taller

All down to you, dear
Everything has changed

My sorry name has made it to graffiti
I was looking for someone to complete me

Not anymore, dear
Everything has changed

We made the moon our mirror ball,
The streets, an empty stage,
The city sirens violins
Everything has changed

So lift off love

We took the town to town last night,
We kissed like we invented it
And now I know what every step is for - to lead me to your door

Know that while you sleep,
Everything has changed

We made the moon our mirror ball,
The streets, an empty stage,
The city sirens violins
Everything has changed
Everything has changed
Everything has changed

So lift off love
