

Electric Soft Parade, Come Back Inside

The noise has stopped traffic's still They want to move, but never will
The sun is going down

Pavements filled with people's lives
Too much talk, too much surprise
You're never on your own

And when it's time, you'll leave your cares behind you
Just close your eyes, and let the dreams remind you

Darkness lifts, the day begins Whatever's left must stay within, so no-one else will know the way you are when we're alone the way your face could never show that nothing's changed at all

And when it's time, you'll leave your cares behind you
Just close your eyes, and let the dreams remind you that when you're mine, the world just turns without us Come back inside, there's nothing out there for us
