

Eleventeen, Hit the Road

I heard it on the phone
The words you spoke pierced through my heart
Could not believe my ears
You're not coming home again

Since you've been gone
This world has seemed dull
Since you've been gone
I've been left here wondering when you will pick up and hit the road
Since you've been gone
This world has seemed dull

To my surprise
So outspoken I wanna think it was a lie
Cracks in my voice
I try to hide, I tired to disguise
Now, I've been left here wondering
When you will pick up,
When you will pick up and hit the road

Since you've been gone...

To my surprise
So outspoken I wanna think it was
I wish that they were right

Since you've been gone...

Since you've been gone
This world has seemed dull
Since you've been gone
I've been left here wondering when you will pick up and hit the road
Since you've been gone
This world has seemed dull

Heard it on the phone
The words you spoke pierced through my heart
Could not believe my ears
You're not coming home again

Since you've been gone
This world has seemed dull
Since you've been gone
I've been left here wondering when you will pick up and hit the road
Since you've been gone
This world has seemed dull
