Ella Fitzgerald, Let's Kiss And Make Up

I didn't mean to, Start any scene to Make you sigh Hope to die

It's most immoral For us to quarrel Why can't we Both agree

Don't you know Ben Franklin wrote about this thing at length? On the proposition that in union there is strength?

Why raise a storm up
If we'll just warm up
The blues will slumber
We'll have their number

Let's kiss and make up Come on, let's wake up For I need you and you need me Let's kiss and make up No use to break up When we can live in harmony

I'll give you your way You give me my way And out the doorway Our cares will fly away

If we be happy
The way is clear
Let's kiss, and make up
No use to break up
We need each other, dear

Let's kiss and make up
No cares to rake up
For I need you and you need me
No reprimanding
Full understanding
That we can live in harmony

The world is prose-y When we are fighting Lets make it rosy By reuniting

Two heads are better
Than what I hear
Let's kiss and make up
No use to break up
We need each other, dear

Why should we shake up A new earthquake-up Take the uptake-up And soon they'll bake-up A wedding cake-up Let's kiss and make up We need each other dear
