

Ellison, Your Goodbyes

I can still remember
When you pulled into the drive
And kissed me for the first time

Say you didn't want me
Well how was I supposed to know?
Not from the way you were looking at me

Sorry to keep you up all night
I thought we could lay here for a while
But now I can see it in your eyes
Your goodbyes, your goodbyes, your goodbyes

Why your leaving so soon?
Is this the last I'll see of you?
What if some thing I said or didn't do?

So let's not speak
I'd rather you just leave
So the last thing I'll remember is you turning away from me.