Eloy, Magic Mirrors

follow a faint reflecting light to the core of all consciousness that mirrors what is not in sight or lost somewhere in carelessness thought in it's purest form, focused here's reborn leading to higher spheres of soul, heart, and mind the darkest part of man's unveiled and brought to sight relentlessly a balance between win and fail, an even scale of honesty thought in it's purest form, focused here's reborn leading to higher spheres of soul, heart, and mind caught in a whirl of life laid bare set free of envy and hate insight I've gained I've climbed the stairs up to the mirrors of fate the deepedt source of soul and mind's portrayed and put into light no more remorse glorious truth rendered by mirrors of fate