

Eloy, Something Yellow

<Some day when wake up in the morning you'll never forget that day you feel that there is something in the air you've never seen before something tough,something yellow and your lungs begin to melt during chimneys someking everywhere you hear the voice of your president we must do something against the smog.