Elvis Presley, There's Gold In The Mountains

There are lots of girls in the mountains And they're worth their weight in gold When they're in my arms with their lovin' charms A treasure chest I hold

Well there's gold in the mountains, love in the hills I don't need no city women with their diamonds and frills There's gold in the mountains and oh, what scenery The prettiest girls I ever did see

There's such beauty there in the mountains You can feel your knees growin' weak Every single boy feels the height of joy When he climbs that mountain peak

Well there's gold in the mountains, love in the hills I don't need no city women with diamonds and frills There's gold in the mountains and oh, what scenery The prettiest girls I ever did see

I said there's gold in the mountains, love in the hills I don't need no city women with their diamonds and frills There's gold in the mountains and oh, what scenery The prettiest girls I ever did see I ever did see I ever did see
