

Emarosa, Armageddon

Far away from somewhere
I'd like to call it close to you
The problem is
I've finally found a reason

I'm hoping that you're safe now
Now that you've found your way out
Truth is the silence can't speak for you
There's too much to say
But words aren't enough to speak for

You can't forget all these things that you know
This is the day of your reckoning
(pray for your life)
And I watched you create all of your shame
I know of a place that can
Save you from the things you fear

No one will hear the things you say
I know the things that you need

I won't be the one to pull you out
Will you find your way back home
When everything you know is gone
Tell me I'm the one who missed you here
What have I become
I try so hard just to forget

Before the crowd of a silent mouth
Like air in a dream of drowning
You'll find yourself inside this moment
And confess that you're at war
With what keeps you breathing

You're holding your thoughts back to Keep you from speaking the words
You know you can't mean in the end
If this is what you want
Then this is what you'll get
I watched you fall to your knees as the waves
Came tumbling down crashing upon
This wreckless abandoned
Hope that you painted
Inside of this life you live
