Embodyment, Decade

in the right moment she feels him teething burn the pictures of days gone by trade this moment for passing pleasure end the hour with even scores in the right moment the candle's burning hide the question in one more thought with submission you find devotion save my soul with sudden good-byes ## falling...

in the right moment the dial tone comforts find your peace beneath tainted sheets exchange values for self-indulgence cross your heart with fleeting dreams

falling...

judges feasting on shame sever passions on end children weeping for one vacant, denied in the right moment the story's ending try your soul on another page and time opens your best kept secrets plead the fifth now before you lie in the right moment you play you in the right moment you slay you in the right moment you sell you in the right moment i save you a decade late...