

Embrace Today, Cold Day in July

You're freezing,
You're freezing fucking cold because you left me in the dark,
And we're losing memories of what we had,
And I'm crying, I'm crying out because you know I played my part,
When you left me in the dark,
Well I told you that there would be,
A cold day in July, The next time that we met,
And I told you that I'd kill you, but I never meant the half of it,
When you told me that you loved me and you never meant the half of it,
And how could I forget what you've done,
How could I forget?