

Emerson, Lake & Palmer, Talkin' Bout

TALKIN' BOUT
(Robert Berry)

Tell me what can I do? I sit here wondering if the things you say are true
But, oh, so many times, I believed in something that just melted into lies
But, oh, is it just a dream or is it so
You're pretending not to see, you're pretending not to see

I'm talking 'bout you, I'm talking 'bout me
And everything that we could do, and everything that we could be

Tell me why you don't show
When I look into your eyes the both of us should know
But I, I just don't know, am I right in holding on or should I just let go?
But, oh, is it just a dream, or is it so, oh, you're pretending not to see

I'm talking 'bout you, yeah, I'm talking 'bout me
And everything that we could do
And everything that we could be, yeah, I'm talking 'bout

Oh, I'm talking 'bout you, oh, I'm talking 'bout me
And everything that we could do, and everything that we could be, yeah
I'm talking 'bout you, oh, I'm talking 'bout me
And everything that we could do, and everything that we could be, yeah