

Endless, 363 Days

one day you felt something strange I wasn't there anymore the one who used to be so close I wasn't strong anymore like the eagles' wings on which you rode I was gone so far like the eagles' wings on which you flew to experience life I guess overhead flew the eagle and offered again to experience life which disappears like sweat dried up on your face my soul was looking for a change I guess, wanting to be wings somewhere else it felt into the trap of my reality in self destruction

it wasn't made to be alone
in self destruction
it wanted to feel your love my other side wanted to return but was scared
it wanted to feel your love
my soul was looking for a change but was scared
it wanted to feel your love

in the whirlwind it didn't know 'cause in the river of fate it was different so that my soul could be there where its always been where it belongs it needed to hurt, be surrounded by magic
in self destruction
it wasn't made to be alone
in self destruction
it wanted to feel your love
my other side wanted to return but was scared
it wanted to feel your love
my soul was looking for a change but was scared
it wanted to feel your love