

Engine Down, Rogue

you get what you put in your way holds enough weight to stay but you're out before you hear the ring

I never thought i'd learn to accept the burns and walk away another day, another lesson learned and i lie awake

it goes on for too long the pain sounds sweet in a song in time i'll learn to leave it behind i'll reveal only a sigh only a note beneath your cries do you need more to feel alive? it just seems best to not ask why still alone but there's options for moving you'll turn back from attack and keep losing now you're onto something that may be won there's not much time before it's gone