

English Dogs, Blind Man

Brainwashed at school, mass produced in a mould
Ruled by the power before you grew old
Brought, oppression and misery
It only brings thoughts of revenge to me
Why must we suffer for a system's greed?
Why must we obey? refuse and take heed
Because there's so much money spent on war
When the lower class masses are helpless poor

[Chorus:]

The blind man is led into a world we know is wrong
Where the upper classes lords are ruling too strong
The blind man is led into a world we know is wrong
Where the upper classes lords are ruling too strong
The blind man is led into a world he can't control
Where people led like sheep can't accept the proper
That's the way the system is run today
Birth, life, death, pain and misery
Still no one can see that we're all being led
To an option of painful death
We don't want your system it's all ruled by state
We don't want your power in your plastic mould
We don't need your presence we can die with you
We don't have to take all the things you do
