

Epic Hero, Stars

Everybody has an opinion
Nobody has the disease
Scratching just to break through the surface
They're not happy til somebody bleeds
It's incredible how you survive

Stretching out as far as the ocean
As high as the tallest tree
I could never sway your ambition
As long as there's room for me
I am hanging on for my dear life

As long as you're near me
I could never be down
And every complication turns out fine
I believe the stars are all aligned for you

If I had the words to describe you
I'd say you're nature's second sun
I know that I'm nobody's hero
You're a hero to everyone
I would scream it to the galaxy

As long as you're near me
I could never be down
And every complication turns out fine
I believe the stars are all aligned for you

Nothings going to drag us down
Nothings going to take away
What we have, what we've worked through
The good, the bad, the ugly plans
When everything falls and we're still standing
In the maze of this rat race
There's a fine line in the ticking of time
You've got to punch in, punch out, walk the line
You talk about life, you talk about love,
You fall back daylight savings time
It's Monday, mundane, and all the world somehow seems the same
Unless you're here, unless you're near
So come here, come on